Captain of the Utopia Arrested.

Capt. McKeague, of the Utopia, has been arrested for wrongful acts, impro ser conduct, negligence and mismanagement. The accounts given by divers engaged in work on the wrecked steamer of the terrible sights they have witnessed in the vessel still further increase the appailing character of the catestrophe.

These men say they found the hatches and chart room of the Utopia closely packed with the bodies of the unfortunate passengers, wedged into an almost solid mass in the frantic rush to reach the decks of the steamer after she crashed into the sharp ram of the icon clad.

The positions of the bodies show that tee was on the Biddeford Murleinal Court court; and to take some action looking to the removal of the judge. On the two bills had no jurisdiction and suggested that any sharp ram of the iron clad.

The positions of the bodies show that the poor people made a terrible excuggle for life and to escape from the doomed yessel as the sea came rushing in through the rent in her side!

Owing to the lack of accommodations in the naval bospital here many of the crew and emigrants who were rescued were compelled to encamp on the Glacis.

COL. MARDLE UNDER FIRE.

The next day was devoted to downight work; haughing eyes and curls were to have the go-by. In the morning Windward kept his room and methodically reviewed the budget of documents in his sachel relating to the French claims. Having thus refreshed his knowledge of the case he outlined a course of action. And she first step he decided would be to asserts in just how far Col. McArdle felt identified with the claims and how much direct help he could be depended on to furnish. Toward noos, therefore, he sought the colonel at his office, and this time was fortunate enough to find him in. A client was possible a grisvance into his ans sandwach and apple ration of Mrs Ex, and yet delightfully simple and informal The colonel laid saide his business seventy and talked amusingly, though with deep learning, of saleds, voodooism and curious patents. Louise was again the perfect housewife, thoughtful, companionable and inspiring More than once the colonel's quiet eyes rested on her in silent approbation and love. It was easy for any one to see how fond he was of her, how entirely he trusted and relied upon her, how integral a part of his happiness she had grown to be. The blithe Miss Willis came as near fearing the colonel as her temperament.

Hence, under such circumstances, she appeared at her best, for sie only needed good manners to be very charming Windward certainly found her so that windoward certainly found her so that nom, but having resolved that that day laughing eyes and curls were to have the go-by, he resolutely shock off their spell, therefore, and turned his steps to the agency to meet his appointment there. he and Shevens devoted to writing letters to certain of the more active and indefatigable claimants, informing them that another effort was to be made, and urging them to bring to bear on their representatives in congress whatever influence they conwolled. The next day he spent over a circular, in the nature of a legal brief, stating the argument after the claimants and reviewing the history of the case. This pamphlet was to do service among congressmen, reporters, and whom else, it might concern. The young lawyer tolled very hard over the document, and was included to concerntulate himself on the result. Stevens

The young lawyar toned very hard over the document, and was inclined to congratulate himself on the result. Stevens liked it, too, though he suggested a few modifications, and ine gentlemen at the agency expressed their satisfaction also. But Col. McArdle snuffed out the young advocate's pride without mercy.

"It is too long," he said. "Cut it down two birds, and leave out all the sarcasm and abuse." Then noticing Windward's look of chagrin and discouragement, he went on to say. "I know I am giving hard counsel. It is easien to be diffuse than concise. A newspaper friend once told me, 'I can write a column in an hour, but to write half a column takes two." Report of Chief Engineer Fire

Bangor, March 1, 1891. To the Honorable the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Bangor: Gentlemen—I have the honor to present to this bedy the annual report of the operations and condition of the Bangor fire department for the year anding March 1, 1891.

The force remains the same as in my last report, vz.: 94 men, all toid, divided as follows 5 chainers, 70 hotemen, 15 lad der men, 3 drivers, and one firman on steamers.

follows a character, 70 hosemen, 10 and der men, 3 drivers, and one firman on steamers.

The apparatus in the department, with one exception, is in first-class condition. The Hook and Ladder Fruk is one of the worst apolagies for a horse truck, which is expected to carry a full set of ladders, that can possibly be found in any department. I certainly recommend the baying of a new truck the piesent season, such as is needed to carry the longest ladders in the department. During the year a new house eart of modern make has been bought, for Holly No 7, at a cost of $157 lbe Union No. 1 cart has had a rew set of wheels, and other minor repairs done at an expense of $35, which makes it as good as new. Hose No. 8 and Hose No. 9 are using two rather old carts, but they are in good repair and will do good service for some time. Steamer No. 4 has been sent to the factory, and had a new set of copper tubes to replace the old brass one, a new fire box, a new set of valves, and several changes made which make the engine as good as new. The expense of these repairs was $707, so that now the three engines are all in first-class condition. The houses of the department are all as good condition. Holly No. 7 house has been finished the past season at an expense of about $900, so that now they have the best appointed house in the department At Hose No. 9 a new floor of hard wood has been laid and water introduced, and other minor repairs done, so their house is in good order.

in good order Late in the fall an order was presed the balance of 5,000 is fair, but unreliable, 300 feet have been condemned the past season. I would recommend buying 1,000 feet the present season. The receipts and expenses for the past season have been as/follows. Receipts, $13,200 00, total expenses. $19,373.39, balance overdrawn, $1,673.39.

It will be seen that we have overdrawn to quite an sonount; this is caused mostly by no provision being made in the appropriation, for the purchase of new horses, or the repairs which were made to the Steamer No. 4.

The number of calls on the department liting the year have been 55 (against 50 if e.g., and the steamer of the vial of $18,195, on which there was an insurance of $48,650. The obtain value of property on fire was $154,-100, which shows a loss of less than 12 per cent of the value of the property indicated, which is considered a very good showing for a wooden (try like Bangor 10 extinguish the same 24,350 feet of flowers used $50 ne of the most disastrous fires of the year were where there was no insurance to speak of, v.z. One important matter I wish to call your attention to, is the cond ton of an fire alarm. We have now some twenty miles of wire, and this line is tried and recrossed by telephone, telegraph and electric light wire, either out of which are liable, to fail on the wire, and cauge a cut out, or crossed wire, and in case of the light wire getting crossed, it would burn out the marest instrument, in other case it would cau e a delay of ten or twenty hours in finding the trouble, as the whole line may have to be traveled before found, to say nothing of the damage that would be sone.

I strongly recommend the buying of a four or six circuit repeater. With this apparatus the city could be divided into John or six districts of four or five miles cach, and in case of trouble, you have only to look at the repeater, and see he a glance which circuit is out, and by an automatic arrangement, the other circuits are express. Hammond Street, Opposite Court House.

Which circuit is out, and by rain and account is granged into line and are ready to send in an altern if needed. While the superleccedant has only a short time to look over, he could have it repaired at once. It call fire departments where they have ten miles or smore, they have the same repeaters in use. At the last meeting of the City Council an order was passed for a new alarm box, near the Hampden line, this will add another mile of wine to the line, and still at least five more boxes are needed to over the city and make the alarm system as monthly are readily see the need of having a repeater. In which you have supplied our wants the past year As the records show, we have accomplished more than has been the case for a great many years. To the members of the department, myself and all good clizees are under great obligations for the prompt, faithful, quiet and successful manner in which they have performed their duties, for there have been ease to past year where serious fired cases for a great many countries. To the City Council The Oversees of the Poor of the city of Bangor herewith submit their annual report Receipts. $17,437.60, expenditurer, $17,331.20; unexpended balance, $166.40. The condition of the Alous Husse is good in every respect; the amount of repairs have been small; we have removed the word shed and cooking house which stood nearly in front of the mail buildings and built a new building back of the stable and connected with the plagery, to be used to cook feed for the swine and attack, at an expense of $150, which we think is a great improvement.

We have been called upon to furnish aid to a large number of families who came to Bangor within the last year, nearly all of them from the Provinces, some seventy families numbering 310 persons.

The amount furnished those having a pauper settlement in this city, is below the average of past years.
